Logiciature together; for it wid meet shortly he interds to do it. upon its own edjournment; but he repeats his new resens to influsice the Legislature, and philosophy, it goes on : all that exist have been considered. We are told over and over that, slavery abolished, things will settle down and mlaunderetardings cease. Those tame prophets have uttered their cracles to the people of this State before. When objectione were made to emancipation proclamations, we were told, put down the rebellion-that is the cause of iland then we can correct this wrong, which the prophets were swift to admit and mainain was a great wrong. When we complained by of sib.trary arrests and Executive neurpaions, we were consoled with the reflection tost the rebellion wes the cause of all this, and we would settle the point with these transhe face of these fallures of these false acer-, they sak to be trusted, when they tell that, If we adopt the amendment, all will settle down, and the disorder and trouble that now exists will cease. The same false prophets saw snything that happened, and usually fore-all what never comes to pass. now by a law of Congress, and they do not war against M:ximillan, but filibneter him out settle down in order and quietness. The confusion wores contonuded. Tals interference with the iegai and constitutional atains of the negro, as fixed by our laws and Constitution, has made all the trouble in the State on this entiret. Kentucky did not invi.e it, did not deserve it. Sae, from first to last, protested against it; and there is no In other words, if we can only bell the cal, reason why she should now sauction it. Oar and no Legislators have power to pass it in the face of their oaths. Bisides, If there were State, we should not pass the amendment. We should never meddle with the social domes ic affairs or other people. Let those who went to be philinibropic at other people's expense, who have a divine mission to set all the world right, sugage in this revolutionary roceeding. The smendment, as it new stands, is preg nant with mischief in all time to come. It strips the State of exclusive power over what should belong to it, if any power does. It confers on Congress, and Congress will confer on the Executive, the most arbitrary power over the labor of a State. We would prefer to-day a President for life and a Sanate for life to a surrender of this power of a State. The freecesan's buresu bill, that will pass the nex. Congress, is a foreshadowing of what is to follow the adoption of this amendment. We are told that slavery will be abolished anyhor; that it is dead; and we had as well acquiesce. Let those who abolish it take all the responsibility for the wrong, if it be a wrong, and all the credit for the right, if it be a right. Let them not seek to divide the responsibility with men who have, from first to last, condemed the whole business-who have been the victims of the policy. Let them not seek to divide the honor of this great act of righteoneness, at other people's expense, with sincers who can't see it. We don't think it worth while to submit this question again to the present Legislature, or to any other Le islature elected by the free, usbiased votes of the people of this State. They will not adopt this amendment.

After this revolution is over, thie State will attend to alavery; it is a State's business; and a State may manage it without danger to one race and ruin to the other. The Federal Government has shown ite incapacity in ite management of Indian affaire. It has managed the ladian out of existence, with wonderful professions of philanthropy sil the while. It will repeat the exploit with the negro. Be far as it has gone, the process is marked by the destruction, suffering, idleness, want and misery of the negro, end it has only just began in the work of destruction, under the pretence of protection. The Federal authorities have got the elephant, and they want us to sanction the bargain. Don't think we shall aid in the trade. We have enough trouble and expense without the reflection that we sanctioned it ourselves. To all the gilded pictures of peace and prosperity that partian painters present as a cons quence of their exploits, we beg leave to newer, what is as good as any answer to them: We know better. It is all idle imaginlegs. I: will never be fact. There is nothing but evil to come of it to white and black.

A good mary self-constituted advisers have called on the President to give him good advice, and see that he ie well instructed in his duties. He has replied to them generally, and they leave profeseing to be well plessed. expecting that his Excellency will do as he le taught. He ie not entirely green, we observe. If they have found out from all he has said anything they didn't know as well before, the reet of mankind have not. Andrew Johnson ie no fiedgling in politics. He has heard iectures before; and like the Equire who had made up hie mind, he can afford to lieten to them, and then he knows how to reply satisfactorily and say nothing. These committees might todge that Johnson has a will of his the crowd in 1861, and thet all their instruc-

Dr. Nelson, of St. Louis, esys: "It may be that God took away Abraham Lincoln in order to raise up one who would have less mercy on rebeis." So the New York Tribane lears that the assa sinstion of President Liv. coin leaves the South to the tender mercies of such old and zealous champions of her rights as Ardrew Johnson, E. M. Stanton and B. F. Butler. The Tribuae adds: "This is not as we would have it; but we must take things as we find them." Dr. Nelson, however, doce not seem to be sorry. Indeed, these radicals talk of Mexico:

B L Fitzgerald, co D, 8th Iowa cav, intermit feof Mexico:

In attempting to forecast what will be the toreign policy of President Johnset's similaritation, we have to guide us his emphalic declaration that he is "in favor of the Modroe poetrine throughout; and his opinion, boilely expressed lest Jnre, "that the time is not far ols ent when, with the ribellion crushed, we shall say to Napoleou that he cannot establish monarchy in Mexico."

If, as is probable, the President will carry out the policy here indicated, Maximilian bad better either rack up his trunk, or ask Lou's Napoleon to hurry over a dezm er so shiploads of his best soldlers and some of his ironclads, if the latter will finat. There is going o bs a storm-an invasion of the Northern hordce—the Goths and Vandals, on avother spree into the falr and flowery Southern land. We ere a go-ahead people, and even if, f the last four years, ours has not been entire ; the best government the sun evershone npo We none the less think we can do as well Max. the First. Besides, whether our Go erament is the best or the worst, the corolesion is the same. If it is the best, then we ought to extend it. If it is the worst, it not do to have a powerful ration on our borders, watching our chips, and ready at a mement's notice to take advantage of our errors and filibuster a little on our eacred soil I: is clearly our duty, then, to drive Maximilian Governor Bramlette has not called the out of Mexico, and Johnson tells the world

The Hersld, after having shown forth the recommendation that this Legislature adopt intention very clear, goes on to show how it the constitutional amendment. We see no is to be done. Beginning with a touch of

We have seen that confiscation, or an entire change of the Southern proprietorial class, will be enforced by the natural course of the laws relative to debt, even without ary direct laterference on the test of the national gov-errment; and, in like manner, the Monroe dec rare will enforce itself by the spontaneous action of our enterprising merchanis and dis-banded so'diers, under the precedenta estab-lished by France and England in conceding belligerent rights to the South, without in-volving the United Sares in any jost cause of quarrel with foreign rations. We have liver racognized Maximilian's usurpation, while we have expressly recognized and held relations with the national republic of Mexico Our merchan's, therefore, may aeli ships of war, arms and all the municians of heiligerthat as soon as the rebeillon was put down, every to the popular Mexican authorities; nor can our government be well held responsible gressions of the Constitution. How well these premises are fulfilled we now see. In drift over the R'o Grande after their cishardment, and to take part in driving back across one A langic a foreign usurper who was im-posed on an unwishing people by foreign bay-onets and domestic fraud.

We mark one difficulty here in the outset If we are going to make any violent charges are at their trade again. They never yet fore in the 8 utb, we shall leave behind us, in cur march, some bitter evemice, whom it will be bard to softer. Aside frum this, the plan Thousands of women and children are free is ingenious. We are not going to declare sa we tried several years ago to filibuster cerconstitutional amendment will on y make | taln people out of Nicaragua and Cuba. If we failed then it was because our Government had not learned the new morality of making peace the cover for actual war. We have the material here, it is true, in men and arme: and if we could only bind over Louis Napoleon to keep the pesce, the matter would be very eses. there is a chance for us to steal as many little own State Constitution forbids such an act, patches of Mexico as we can carry. We must remember, however, that that cat Napoleon is a very wily and active cat, with very sharp claws and a terrible spring. We should like to be absolutely certain that the bell was se-carely hang before we tried any rash experiments. Before leaving the Herald's article we must give what it says of the Canadas. It proposes a sort of American millennium on the continent, ali under one central government. We are going to "annex" the Canadas. We will deal more mildly with England than with France. Why this is the Herald doesn't explain. Whether it is because England has been more generous to ue in our war, or because che is a greater navai power, is in doubt. It is enough, however, that we intend to serve both the same way. The Herald says: It is well known that the Canadas would iong ago have suriven to scenre admittanc-into the Union but for the bugaboo of sievery in the South, and the fear of a fugitive play law to be extended ever their territory—two points which have been constantly held in terrorem before them by the subile agents an slipendaries of the British connectlen. that the whole Union is free, it require no eeventh son to foretell how rapidly the Cuna cas must gravitate towards annexation; nor does it need any very powerful apirit of propercy to teach use that the now domi-cant antislavery sentiment of the United States cannot, for any great length of time, tolerate the existence and rivairy near our shoree of the slaveholding and save-importing colonial government of Cuba. Spin has never been so wisely governed as to tire group of West India islands-Re English and Spinish—we have the precedents of their respective governments, in our late ping war vesaele and privateers for the "befiggrent" henrgents; nor could our sational authorities be properly or successivity called npon to take active measures for the prevention of a large migration of veteran military pilgrime from our shoree to take part in detective force, which went down the river on gouday, obtained the first news of Booth at Port Roysl on Tuesday evening from an old man, who said four men, in company with a rebel Captain, had crossed the Rappahaunock a short time previous, going towards Bowlinggreen. He added that the Captain would puobably be tound in that place, as he was courting a lady there. *O2 pushing to Bowlinggreeu the Captain was found at the hotel and taken into enatedy. From them it was learned Booth and Harrold were at the house of Wm. Garrett, three miles back towards Port Roysl, and about a quarter of a mite from the road passed over by the cavalry. In the meantime it appears Booth applied to Garrett for horses to ride to Louiss Courthouse. Garrett, fearing the horses would not be returned, refused to hire them, notwithstanding large sums were effered. These circumstances, together with recriminations of Booth and pose of making a syllabub for the Prince. She had a silver pail in one hand and an ornamental stool in the other. Lady Haggerstone tripped along with ribbons flying from her dainty little milking but that hung on one side of her graceful head, and the smallest little spron, tied below her laced stomacher, till she came opposite his Royal Highness, to whom she dropped a really graceful courtesy. Then passing lightly over the beautiful plaited straw, her tucked np gown showing her neat ankle, as well as her colored stockings, she placed her stool and pail convenient for use. Leaning against the flank of one of the crossest ing to commence her rustic labors, but not having selected the right sex, the offended animal did not seem to fancy the performance, for he first kicked ont, and then trot ted away, nearly npsetting stool, pail and Lady Haggerstone, who, covered with con-fusion, made a hasty retreat for her little dairy, whence she did not appear agaiu.

A WESTERN OBITUARY .- Jem Bangs, we this peat, we have an equivalent closely cerresponding to that of oak wood; and I am led by my results to expect an equal heating power from an equal weight of this peat, burned in comparison with wood." The Hanging Rock is a real curiosity, as are many other rocks near it. They an irregular group on the east side of the creek, and are fantactically piled one npon another along the declivity of a steep hill. That called Hauging Rock, in particular, is a sing'e mass about twenty feet in diameter, which is, on the side nearest the creek, figure o' an exceedingly regular kind, resembling the segment of a concave sphere, or rather purabiloid This arch is capasupposed by hunters, for the edge of the arch aspears tinged with smoke. It is a first view to enppose that a small force hill in o the creek below. There are many among the most remarkable. As I descended the hill and viewed this latter rock, it side and etern being aply represented to the fancy. The formation of these rocks is also singularly curious. They are not formed of lamina, or strata in planes, as other rocks are, but seem to be composed more generally of strate in concentrio cirforce of frost. Some of immense size had fractures so even that one might suppose they had been sawn through, yet evidently without any sesm. The substance composing these masses is also carious. The principal matter consists of small flinty stones, of all sizes, from one-eighth to one half of in diameter, the whole cemented together times it is twenty or thirty feet deep. The springs are abundant. The water gushing terns, a few inches deep, which the people here suppose were dug out by the Indians.

[Just such tales they tell in the West Indies of the pirate's rocky punch-bowl.] I stepped across the rock and found it five hundred feet in diameter. The naked part is about four acres, and the whole extent about twenty. I saw two other rocks of this greater part of the country seems to have thirteen miles around. such a basis. Immediately before coming to the creek you pass through the battle-ground. The country was then all in woods. The conflict began on the hill, and named frem its chape. It stands, a curiosity of the tiny kind, close by the road, about ten feet high, eight feet wide at the top, and perhaps five at the bottom, the sides irregularly worn away by frosts and rains. It is composed of the same kind of aggregated particles as the Hanging Rock, and all the numerous flat rocks that lie scattered through this country.

One mile from Hanging Rook there is a mineral spring, four hundred yards from transparent, bubbling the road. It is very transparent, bubbling descent leads to the spring It is delightfully shaded by trees, and has a fall for a Chien railroad. The specimen is in the condition in which it was taken from the bed, except that it has been dried and pressed in a convenient form for fuel, to the solidity of coal. The farm of Colonel Slanghter contains, it is supposed, about 350 000 cords of this pear, and it is his Intention to organize a company and set about mannfacturing it for a Western market. It has been demonstrated by chemical analysis that this peat is fully equal to coal as an article of fuel, and superior to any other coal but cannel for the manufacture of gas, while it can be produced at a much less cost. This pest, in color, resembles the outside of pressed tobacco that has been exposed to light and air, and is quite as hard and heavy. The internal structure is so compact that on cuttling it with a knife, a smooth polished surface is formed. The specimens that we have burn with a flame clear and brilllant as seasoned maple or hickory, and produce no unpleasant odor like coal. Specimens of the peat have been exhibited to Dr. A. A. Hayes, of Boston, the famons analytical chemist; Dr. E. Carr, Professor of Chemistry in the Wisconsin State University, and other distinguished practical men, and they speak highly of its merits. Professor Hayes says "its faming quality is of faming quality is of a marked character," and that "the inflammable part has a high heating power, and burns freely and clearly from the ash." "Take the fifty-nine parts of inflammable compounds, as representing the positive combustible matter of

THE RUSSIAN VAPOR BATH .- The reason why the vapor bath, as practiced in Russia and other Enropean nations, is not popular other Enropean nations, is not popular of leading writers, with their assumed sig; here is, that an impression prevails that instures. It will be well to preserve it for the process is in some way trying and seyere. But no hisconception bould be greaten. The whole thing, from beginning to end, is a series of the most agreeable sensations. You first enter a room heated by the vapor to a certain uniform temperature, which seems a little stifling for a moment, but soon becomes pleasant. You are placed upon a bench, where you lie until you have perspired copiously; you are then removed to a marble table, where you are carefully rubbed with a crash towel; you next pass under a gentle shower of tepid water, and then under a douche of cold water, and finally you plunge into a cistern of cold water, whence you emerge to be carefully dried with soft towels. There is, it will be seen, nothing formidable in this; on the contrary, the alterations from heat to cold, which many are inclined to dread as shocking, are really delightful; the sudden changes of temperathre produce a genial glow on the whole surface of the body, and leave it with an invigorating sense of cleanliness, elasticity and strength. As these baths are approved, we believe, by physicians of all schools in cases of rhenmatism, gout, neuralgia and various cutaneous diseases, they are at least worthy of trial by those who are ill, while both as
